Two Cars. Same Make & Model.
Same Color, Equipment and Mileage.

Yet One is Worth $1150.00 More. Why?

Condition. Dealers know this is one of the most important factors in determining the value of a used car.

Since Black Book began reporting actual dealer auction selling prices more than 45 years ago, their guide books have always provided values for different condition classifications. Just knowing what a car of certain year, make and model sold at auction for isn't enough information in today's market.

Black Book representatives attend major dealer auctions coast to coast, every week. They look at each vehicle, record the mileage and equipment and then classify the vehicle according to condition. General appearance, paint, body, tire and interior conditions are recorded along with the actual selling prices. All this information is then computer tabulated and published in weekly and monthly market guides.

Black Book goes to such extremes for one reason... to always provide the most accurate, up to the minute vehicle market guides available anywhere.

Ten ways to ruin your car's resale value

Are you doing everything you can to maintain your vehicle's resale value?

March 6, 2006: 10:51 AM EST

NEW YORK (CNNMoney.com) - Any car loses value over time. How much it loses is, to some extent, up to you.

There are lots of things people commonly do, or don't do, that can pound down a car's eventual resale value much faster than the simple passage of time and ordinary wear.

If you want to keep your car's resale value as high as possible, perhaps you shouldn't get that monster stereo system installation or munch on that burger with fried onions while you're in the driver's seat.

Kelley Blue Book, known as a resource for used car values, offered this list of things drivers often do that damage their cars' value.

TOSS MAINTENANCE RECORDS

It's easy to scrap that oil change receipt or forget to have your dealership initial your service manual for the 50,000 mile check up. But the best way to ensure a buyer that your vehicle was properly maintained and cared for is through documentation. Taking care of your car's engine is great. But without proof, all that work won't be worth much at trade-in time.

PICK A WILD COLOR

That metallic purple paint job may seem attractive on the sales lot, but many times car owners find it harder to sell those exotic-colored cars later on. Instead consider a more popular color such as black, silver or white, recommends KBB.

GET UNPOPULAR OPTIONS

Picking out options on your new car that suit you may seem like a no-brainer, but be sure to include equipment that other buyers will want such as anti-lock brakes (ABS), alloy wheels, a CD player or leather-upholstered seats.

EAT AND GO

It may be unavoidable at times, but eating in your seat is a fast track to damaging the interior of your car. If possible, consider the mess potential of any foods you might eat in the car.

PERSONALIZE PERMANENTLY

KBB also recommends passing on the vehicle personalizations for your new car or at least keeping them to a minimum. Who's going to want to buy a car with your nickname emblazoned on the trunk lid?

LET THE INTERIOR GO

Neglecting your vehicle's interior is one way drivers can ruin their car's resale value. Instead make sure the upholstery and mats in your car are in good shape.

PUMP UP THE VOLUME

Your driving experience may not be the same without that extra subwoofer or those upgraded speakers, but replacing the factory stereo, especially if it means carving away parts of your car, may jeopardize your vehicle's resale value.

MIX-AND-MATCH TIRES

Buying mismatched tires and forgetting to have them checked and rotated regularly is another trap many car owners fall into. Buy a complete set of the same brand for both safety and to maintain your car's resale value, KBB suggests.

IGNORE THOSE DOOR DINGS

That scratch or ding may not look like much from the outside, but they could have a lasting impact on your car's value if not fixed in a timely fashion. Often those blemishes are the first step toward rust and could result in expensive damage to your car over time.

CHOOSE POORLY FROM THE START

It's tempting to pick the car that grabs your eye at the dealership, but make sure you pick a vehicle that has a good projected resale value. KBB says if you do your research ahead of time, it could save you money down the road.

U.S. Environmental Protection Agency Clean Air Markets - Environmental Issues

The Effects of Acid Rain on Automotive Coatings

Over the past two decades, there have been numerous reports of damage to automotive paints and other coatings. The reported damage typically occurs on horizontal surfaces and appears as irregularly shaped, permanently etched areas. The damage can best be detected under fluorescent lamps, can be most easily observed on dark colored vehicles, and appears to occur after evaporation of a moisture droplet. In addition, some evidence suggests damage occurs most frequently on freshly painted vehicles. Usually the damage is permanent; once it has occurred, the only solution is to repaint.

The general consensus within the auto industry is that the damage is caused by some form of environmental fallout. "Environmental fallout," a term widely used in the auto and coatings industries, refers to damage caused by air pollution (e.g., acid rain), decaying insects, bird droppings, pollen, and tree sap. The results of laboratory experiments and at least one field study have demonstrated that acid rain can scar automotive coatings. Furthermore, chemical analysis of the damaged areas of some exposed test panels showed elevated levels of sulfate, implicating acid rain.

The popular term "acid rain" refers to both wet and dry deposition of acidic pollutants that may damage material surfaces, including auto finishes. These pollutants, which are released when coal and other fossil fuels are burned, react with water vapor and oxidants in the atmosphere and are chemically transformed into sulfuric and nitric acids. The acidic compounds then may fall to earth as rain, snow, fog, or may join dry particles and fall as dry deposition. Automotive coatings may be damaged by all forms of acid rain, including dry deposition, especially when dry acidic deposition is mixed with dew or rain. However, it has been difficult to quantify the specific contribution of acid rain to paint finish damage relative to damage caused by other forms of environmental fallout, by the improper application of paint or by deficient paint formulations. According to coating experts, trained specialists can differentiate between the various forms of damage, but the best way of determining the cause of chemically induced damage is to conduct a detailed, chemical analysis of the damaged area.

Because evaporation of acidic moisture appears to be a key element in the damage, any steps taken to eliminate its occurrence on freshly painted vehicles may alleviate the problem. The steps include frequent washing followed by hand drying, covering the vehicle during precipitation events, and use of one of the protective coatings currently on the market that claim to protect the original finish. (However, data on the performance of these coatings are not yet sufficient.)

The auto and coatings industries are fully aware of the potential damage and are actively pursuing the development of coatings that are more resistant to environmental fallout, including acid rain. The problem is not a universal one-- it does not affect all coatings or all vehicles even in geographic areas known to be subject to acid rain-- which suggests that technology exists to protect against this damage. Until that technology is implemented to protect all vehicles or until acid deposition is adequately reduced, frequent washing and drying and covering the vehicle appear to be the best methods for consumers who wish to minimize acid rain damage.

K40 Platinum 360 Radar & Laser System

Features designed with you and your vehicle in mind. Giving you the ultimate in custom installed speeding ticket protection and putting you in control of where and when you hear police radar and laser alerts. With K40, you're ready to drive without limits as soon as the products are installed.

The Latest Technology for Long Range Protection – The Platinum360 features evolutionary enhancements which inspire confidence that you are protected by the very best speeding ticket protection system available today. All new LNA (Low Noise Amplifier) radar receiver technology that increases sensitivity and range. A more powerful CPU for a more responsive system and greater customization capabilities. Three I/O ports for current integration and future system expansion.

Directional Awareness – The Platinum360 features front and rear LNA (Low Noise Amplifier) radar receivers that provide maximum directional range and sensitivity. Custom installed alert LED's and a hidden speaker let you know the specific band of police radar being used as well as whether the threat is in front or behind you.

OEM-like Custom Installation – The Platinum360 retains the original factory appearance of your vehicle's interior. A wireless remote control along with strategically installed directional LED's hidden in your dash and a hidden speaker make this system undetectable. You only know it's there when you need it. RDD (radar detector detector) protection included so even the police won't know you're driving with a "ticket-free" co-pilot.

GPS Features – The Platinum 360 offers you full customizable GPS technology features such as:

- Mark to Mute – Mute audible warnings of false, non-police radar locations you regularly travel past with a simple push of the MM button on your remote control.
- Mark to Alert – Mark locations to alert such as dangerous intersections, speed traps, school zones, and red-light cameras by pressing the MA button.
- Speed Monitor – Track your speed without taking your eyes off the road and be alerted if you exceed your pre-selected speed.
- Quiet Ride – Mute all alerts under a pre-selected speed. Eliminates alerts when you are driving at or near the posted speed limit (Default setting is 20 mph).
- Auto Filter – Sensitivity automatically adjusts to the optimum setting based on your vehicle's speed. This "set it and forget it" option means you always have just the right amount of protection. Less sensitivity at lower speeds means less false alerts, and increased sensitivity at higher speeds means more time to slow down and avoid that ticket.

Advanced Filtering – The Platinum360 is packed with advanced filtering technology to make it the quietest and most dependable radar and laser defense system available today.

- K-Band Filter – Automatically rejects false alerts from radar-based safety features like Collision Avoidance and Lane Departure Warning from other vehicles (including your own).
- Traffic Sensor Filter – Rejects alerts from traffic flow sensors usually encountered during highway driving.
- Ka-Band Filter – Enables filtration of non-police Ka-Band radar signals, e.g. other radar detectors and satellite broadcast bands.

Radar Band Selectivity – The Platinum360 now offers you the option to choose specific band frequency ranges that you wish to be alerted to. Make the drive even quieter by honing in on specific frequency ranges used only by a police officer's radar gun.

- K-Band Narrow/Wide/Extended – Allows you to customize the frequency range of K-Band radar signals your system scans and alerts for.
- Ka-Band Narrow/Wide – Allows you to customize the frequency range of Ka-Band radar signals your system scans and alerts for.

K40 Laser Defuser® Protection – Become invisible to police laser guns. The Platinum360, combined with the combat power of Laser Defuser transponders, delivers the ultimate in bumper-to-bumper speeding ticket protection.

Spray-In Bedliners

Doesn't your investment deserve protection?

Not only does the spray-in bedliner look great on your truck, it also provides a protective barrier that prevents rust, dents, scratches, and chemical corrosion from what you haul, so your truck will have an extended service life and increased re-sale value.

Sprayed on bedliners are for the customer who wants superior surface protection with a factory-like fit and finish.

Sprays On Up to 1/4" Thick

Drop-In Bedliners

Drop-in bedliners are the bedliner for complete truckbed protection, great factory appearance and lasting truck value. Available in over-rail and under-rail styles, drop-in bedliners are custom designed to fit the contours of practically every make and model of domestic and import pickup. Installation is quick and easy, and our new patented fastening clips (for over-rail liners) are designed with built-in release for quick removal, if necessary. Contoured side walls provide even distribution and minimize material expansion in all weather conditions. Extra-wide rails (over-rail models) offer extra protection for side loading. Every drop-in bedliner comes complete with a full-piece tailgate protector for complete protection. Most install with no drilling by using manufacturer prefabricated attachment points. Add it all up and you've got guaranteed truckbed protection that makes you look good.

Unique free-flow floor design provides easy cleaning and prevents water retention.

Over-rail liners feature an extra-wide lip to protect your truck's side rails

Under-rail drop-in bedliners are ideal with Aerocovers, bed covers, truck caps, side rails, etc.

Hitch Mounts

Match up a hitch mount to your trailer hitch. These hitch mounts come in a variety of drop/rise configurations. Generally speaking a 2" drop is the most common for class 2 and above hitches. You may find that a lower drop may be needed depending on your vehicles suspension and trailer height.

Rise

Distance from the top of the Shank to the top of the ball platform

Drop

Distance from the top of the Shank to the top of the ball

Variety of drop/rise configurations

Hitch Pins & Clips

Trailer Hitches

Select a trailer hitch to fit your vehicle and your towing needs. We install class 1,2 and 3 hitches. Not all classes are available for all vehicles but higher the rating the more you can tow. Just remember not to exceed your vehicles capabilities. Class 2 trailer hitches have a 1 1/4" receiver hitch opening while all others have a 2" receiver hitch opening.
